QUEEN LIL'S GRIPPE BETTER.

Now Believed She is in Washington for a Political Purpose.

New York, N. Y., Feb. 11.—A Sun's special from Washington says: Liliuokalani, the deposed Queen of Hawaii, who has been suffering with the grippe for the past few days, is now convalescent. She is feeling better than for six days previous. To day, if the weather permits and she is in good spirits, the Capitol will be visited. For the past ten days her Majesty has been planning to see the building where our laws are made and to see the people who make them, but for one reason or another she has failed to carry out her purpose.

The usual number of callers came to see her yesterday. It is surprising to see what an interest the people of the country have in this woman. Not a day passes that she does not receive at least a dozen invitations to attend social functions, but she has not as yet accepted any of them. As the days pass and no sign of her quitting the capital city appears the belief grows that she is here for a political purpose, but just what it is no one seems to know. The talk most indulged in last night was that she is trying to secure assistance from the present or incoming administration to place her on the Hawaiian throne.

Chinese Letter-Carriers.

A curiously ingenious device is regarded as being sometimes employed by Mongolian letter-carriers. These men make very long journeys on foot, and within a time which allows them only the briefest intervals for an occasional nap. To insure themselves against oversleeping, therefore, they tie a piece of joss stick to one of their thumbs, light it and lie down to rest. When the stick burns down to the flesh the pain awakens them and they resume the journey.
